A letter from our Pastor...

Dear Sisters and Brothers of St. Raymond:

I am excited to announce that we will be receiving a new Associate Pastor on July 1. Fr. Rodlin Rodrigue will be joining the pastoral team at St. Raymond. In addition, Fr. Gilbert will be remaining with us for the rest of his term of service until next July. We have been blessed with the opportunity to have a positive and planned transition!

Below is a letter from Fr. Rodlin, introducing himself to the parish. Please pray for Fr. Rodlin as he prepares to move to St. Raymond, and pray that the Holy Spirit will continue to guide us in the path of renewal.

Peace Be With You,

Fr. Scott Hebden, Pastor

Dear St. Raymond Community,

My dear brothers and sisters in Christ, I am pleased to introduce myself to your parish community. My name is Fr. Rodlin Rodrigue, I am from Haiti and grew up in a small town called Hinche (located in the center of Haiti just two hours from Port-au-Prince which is the capital city). I am the middle child of four in my family.

In 2003, I came to the United States to start my missionary studies with the Divine Word Missionaries (SVD). After spending two years at Divine Word College in Iowa studying philosophy, I felt the call to become a diocesan priest instead of a missionary priest. I still, however, consider myself a missionary because I left my homeland to come to the States to learn a new language and culture for the sake of the Gospel.

I joined the Archdiocese of Chicago in August 2005 and completed my philosophical studies at Saint Joseph College Seminary, which is located at the Loyola University Campus Lakeshore (it is always cooler by the lake). In August 2009, I began my theological studies at Mundelein Seminary. I was ordained a priest in May 2013. I have been the Associate Pastor at St. Joseph and Francis Xavier in Wilmette for the last 6 years. And for the last 6 months I have served as the Administrator for St. Joan of Arc in Skokie while their pastor was on sabbatical.

It is an honor and a privilege for me to be appointed by the Cardinal to serve you as an Associate Pastor here at Saint Raymond Parish. I am looking forward to meeting and serving you, praying with you, learning from you, and worshipping with you the Triune God from whom all good things come. I assure you of my prayers and I humbly ask that you keep me in yours as well.

Pax et Bonum,
Fr. Rodlin Rodrigue

FUN FACTS:

- Fr. Rodlin's family still lives in Haiti
- He speaks 4 languages: Creole, French, English, Spanish

Kindergarteners are Learning, Loving & Growing as a Family

The kindergarten students had a great last month of school! They learned about different careers by dressing up and sharing with the class what they want to be when they grow up. With some creativity, we were able to keep our kindergarten prayer service and celebrate all of the learning, loving and growing that occurred throughout the year. During the prayer service, the teachers shared each child's favorite memory and their future dreams. All together, families prayed the Our Father, showing gratitude for a safe school year. To end the year as a strong class of kindergarteners, the students sang their special song, We Are Family. They take many fond memories with them as they become first graders!

Good and gracious God, may those suffering in body or spirit rest in your abiding presence relaxing every tension, releasing every care and anxiety, and receiving Your healing life into every part of their being. In times of pain may they turn to You for strength; in times of loneliness may they feel your loving nearness; and in times of doubt may your love flow through them in restoration and peace. Amen.

The Faith Community of St Raymond de Peñafort

But Father Loftus braved the controversy and followed through with the $750,000 renovation.

"Few people realized how much he agonized over the decision," recalls Bush.

"When we began and the controversy was the hottest, I was ready to give it up," Father Loftus told the Tribune reporter. But he said that he went ahead because he supported the more participatory atmosphere the architectural changes would create.

"The plainness and elegance drive you into yourself," he explained.

The changes which caused such an uproar were extensive. The marble back altar and tabernacle were removed and replaced with brick and wood. The four-foot-high main marble altar was replaced by a smaller wooden table. Some of the statues which had once adorned the body of the church were enshrined in hallways, chapels and entrances. The statue of the Blessed Mother, however, was placed next to the statue of St. Joseph to the right of the altar in order to make a Holy Family shrine. The sanctuary was brought forward, bringing the altar closer to the people. The choir was moved from the loft in the back to a ground-level position next to the assembly. The old original stained glass windows were replaced by newer ones with a definite story to tell. One of the two rear "cry" rooms was transformed into a priests' vesting room. The other "cry" room was redecorated so that it could double as a "wake chapel" on the mornings of funerals. The priests' vesting room became the altar servers' vesting room and their former vesting room was transformed into a Eucharistic chapel, following the American bishops' wishes for a sacred place of perpetual adoration in each parish.

Simple elegance without distractions was the goal during the 1988 renovation.

Joseph Cardinal Bernardin dedicated the renovated Church in January, 1988. During his homily that day he praised the changes saying that the new look was designed to bind "us all into one assembly gathered around the pulpit and the altar." Courtesy, The New World

Pages from the illustrated history by Jean Powley Murphy

"The emphasis in the Catholic liturgy has changed," Father Loftus explained to a Daily Herald reporter at the time. "We were a church of observers. We watched the priest do things. With Vatican II, however, we became a church of participants. The people have become much more actively involved in the service, so there is a lot more talking before and after church and so forth."

"So we felt that it was no longer an atmosphere appropriate for the tabernacle. As a result, we took the old server's sacristy and made it a private Eucharistic Chapel which houses the tabernacle and is also a private place to pray."

The loss of the tabernacle as the central focus of the church, he said, "is a major change for everyone that will take some getting used to. It is very different for me, too. I grew up and served many years in the old way. But I am finding the new design to be extremely functional."

The work, which was designed by Paul Straka, a church architect who had won national architecture awards for church renovations elsewhere in the Archdiocese, took seven months to complete. Many of the renovations, however, came not from Straka, but from the ever-fertile imagination of Father Loftus, according to Bob Bush. He came up with the idea of the wake chapel. To his knowledge, no one had ever done such a thing before. But since it has been so successful at St. Raymond, others are now following suit.

The renovated church was dedicated by Joseph Cardinal Bernardin on January 24, 1988.

"Have you noticed that, if you stand in the back of the church, you may easily see that the new design of the interior tries to create unity, binding us all – priests, ministers and congregation – into one assembly gathered around the pulpit and the altar?" Bernardin asked during his homily that day. "This symbolizes what our worship, as a community, should signify and what the liturgy has the power to create – a united family gathered to hear God's Word and to be nourished by his body and blood."

One portion of the renovation was not yet complete at the time of Bernardin's visit.

The new bank of stained glass windows along the south wall of the church, designed and made by artist Robert Harmon, were not done until the fall of 1989. So Bishop John Gorman came out on October 15, 1989 to dedicate them.

"When they ultimately put in the new stained glass windows, we all felt they were the finishing touch," Bush recalls. "Many have come to like the church since they were put in."

"Father Loftus had a knack for making the right relationships and getting contributions for his projects," explains Don Burke.

For instance, he combined fund-raising and a social event by raffling off a donated car each year at Oktoberfest. And he managed to increase Sunday collections by five percent with his Stewardship campaign and its slogan of 'Time, Talents and Treasure'.

Father Loftus encouraged an increase in Sunday collections, as well as increased voluntarism, through his "Time, Talent and Treasure" campaign.
